

WEST VIRGINIA'S TOWN TO BE NAMED DETROIT

Information Is Construction of "Automobile" City
Will Start Soon.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINCHESTER, VA., Nov. 26.—The new town near Ridgeway, W. Va., where it is proposed to erect a $10,000,000 automobile plant and community site, is to be known as Detroit, W. Va., according to word received here today from Martinsburg, where attorneys, contractors and other agents of the promoters are making their headquarters.

W. C. Morgan, a Martinsburg contractor, was said to have been awarded the contract for laying out the town site and preparing ground for the erection of buildings. E. L. Luttrell, attorney for the company, said Mr. Morgan would be ready to begin work on December 5.

Representatives of the firm of Phil & Miller, constructing engineers, of Pittsburgh, who have the building contract, were said to be assembling men and equipment for construction work. Mr. Luttrell, M. A. Hoffman and William Jordan, the latter of Detroit, who were here yesterday on business in connection with the enterprise, declared there was no get-rich-quick scheme on foot at Ridgeway, such as lot sales and offerings of worthless stocks. They said the men back of the enterprise intended to manufacture cars that would be sold direct to the user at a price lower than the same grade of automobile can be bought through a retail dealer.

Car Strikes and Kills Horse.
GLOUCESTER, VA., Nov. 26.—Wednesday evening shortly after sunset, as Herbert and Betty Lewis, children of J. M. Lewis, president of the Bank of Gloucester, were returning from West Point, they met a colored boy on a horse, about a mile from their home. Herbert was driving a coupe and, before any one could realize what was happening, the car struck the horse and killed it instantly. The boy was thrown some distance, but sustained no serious injury. Betty Lewis was thrown from the car and Herbert was cut by the broken glass. Strange to say, no one was badly hurt, though the car was badly damaged. The horse belonged to Rev. John Lemon, a colored school teacher.

WORKERS WIN FIGHT AGAINST FOREST FIRES

Farmers Report Great Numbers of Game Birds and Animals Lost.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINCHESTER, VA., Nov. 26.—Efficient work was done today by men fighting forest fires on Great North Mountain, fifteen miles west of here. High winds that had for more than forty-eight hours carried the fire down the mountainside subsided, and workers were enabled to keep near by fields from igniting, thereby saving many farm buildings that were in the danger zone. One mountain stream was reported to have been destroyed. Farmers living east of the mountain said great numbers of game birds and animals had perished, the most common being Rock Hens. Fred L. Glaze, owner of Rock Hens Springs property, said fires broke out within 100 yards of the old hotel building, but that it was saved by winds continuing from the west. Rock Hens is west of the main fire.

A United States forester arriving from the East said the fire was burning today between the Ridge and Little North Mountain, or in the vicinity of the cave, and along the big survey. A number of back fires have been kindled with good results. Five that broke out early today at Riverton, Warren County, destroyed a garage, and automobile and ignited a hotel, the post office and a large warehouse, but was gotten under control by volunteers, aided by Winchester firemen.

Smoldering ruins of the $100,000 fire last week at Rock Hens broke into flames again during the night, and firemen from here remained on duty throughout the day, thoroughly drenching the wreckage without further property loss.

MARKET IS ACTIVE, WITH PRICES HIGHER

LYNCHBURG, VA., Nov. 26.—The local dark tobacco market continues practically to mark time, waiting for a warm, moist rain to order the crop in the barns for the market. The sales for the week held the sales to $3,500,000, and the market continued active with prices higher than the preceding week. Tobacco in good order is selling high, but stocks forced by water are in short supply. The farmers are anxious to sell and a rain will mean very heavy breaks on the market. The sales for the week have aggregated 2,093,560 pounds, the sales now being 551,800, below the sales at this time a year ago.

Baby Run Down by Motor Car.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Nov. 26.—A baby, the 12-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Hirsch, of Douglas Avenue, died last evening at a local hospital from the effect of injuries sustained nearly a week ago. Last Sunday morning Mr. Hirsch went out to his garage to look after his car. While at work on the machine his baby slipped out of the house and followed him to the garage. Without knowledge of the presence of the tot, Mr. Hirsch jumped into the machine and started to back out of the garage. He felt the car strike something and promptly applied the brakes, coming to the back of the machine, he was horrified to find that one of the rear wheels was resting on the head of the child, which had been knocked down. When picked up, the baby was almost lifeless.

Weak, Nervous and Run Down for Six Years Before Taking Plant Juice.

"I glory in letting everybody know that Plant Juice has restored me to good health after I had been in a weakened, nervous, run-down condition for six years."

"I was so nervous that I could not sleep and I sweated my finger nails until they bled. I suffered from indigestion so badly and my stomach was so disordered that often I could not keep the lightest food on my stomach. Gas would form, then I would become nauseated and throw up all I had eaten. I had terrible spells of bloating when I would have to unloosen my waist and unlace my shoes to stop my misery."

"I only weighed 87 pounds but now, since taking seven bottles of Plant Juice, I weigh 115 and feel like a different woman. The stomach trouble is gone; my nerves are quiet; the bloating attacks have disappeared. People who take Plant Juice certainly will not waste their money. It is wonderful."

WINCHESTER, VA., Nov. 26.—One of thirty books, entitled "Sonnets From Petrarch," issued by the University Press, Cambridge, Mass., for private subscription, has been placed on exhibition at the Handley Library by one of the rich American owners. Twelve of the books were sold in Europe, and no more will be issued. Each book, which cost $1,000, is different from the other in illumination and decoration. OIL PROPAGANDISTS SOURCE OF ATTACK

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Charging that 35 per cent of all oil stock advertising is "blatant, misleading and deceptive," the National Vigilance Committee, in New York, today announced today a nationwide campaign against the post office stock of fraudulent oil companies.

The announcement comes on the heels of a special report on oil promoters issued by the committee, and a number of government inspectors. In a statement tonight the vigilance committee said that much evidence had been obtained against bogus operators and that it would be placed in the hands of government prosecutors.

There will be separate departments to take care of a fully graded Sunday school, sixty-six separate classrooms, a cradle roll room, ladies' parlor, kitchen and serving rooms, officers' room, cloakrooms, a room garden with a capacity of 200, while the largest assembly hall will seat 500.

J. T. Hirst Buys "The Folly."
AMHERST, VA., Nov. 26.—A deed was recorded in the county clerk's office this week from Mrs. Hattie G. Slaughter, of New York, conveying to J. T. Hirst, of Purcellville, Va., a tract of 512 acres of land, known as "The Folly." This property is situated on the Glade Road about six miles from Amherst. "The Folly" was once a tavern where the stage coaches stopped on their route from Lynchburg to Scottsville. All that remains now of the tavern is a pile of stone covered with a mass of Virginia creeper and other vines. There is said to be some valuable timber on the property.

INDIAN MISSION AIDED BY RECENT CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Congregational Meeting of Ascension Episcopal Church Is Held.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
AMHERST, VA., Nov. 25.—An enthusiastic congregational meeting in connection with the nationwide campaign and the church's program for the next three years was held in the parish house of Ascension Episcopal church in Amherst.

Indian Mission, in Amherst County, is one point that has been helped by this campaign. This church is located about five miles southwest of Amherst in a section inhabited by people locally known as "Indians." Many of them claim descent from the Powhatan tribe of Indians and are said to have been at the foothills of the mountains when the first white settlers came, on account of peculiar social conditions existing among them for many years it was difficult to secure adequate religious and educational advantages. From time to time various denominations attempted to do missionary work among them, and the school authorities provided as best they could for their needs.

Little was accomplished until 1908, when Rev. Arthur P. Gray, Jr., who was just entering the Episcopal ministry, went to work among them. One-fourth of an acre of land was donated from the Nicholas estate to the church, and upon this a substantial and attractive church building was erected. This is now known as "Indian Mission," and belongs to Lexington parish. Dr. T. D. Lewis has been the pastor since 1910.

ing the rector. Many of these men and women are extremely religious and take great pride in their church. About the time the church was established, Miss Packard took charge of the public school in that neighborhood. She was succeeded by Miss Vera Tignor, of Portsmouth, now Mrs. Edward Sandager, and Miss Isabel Wagner, who had had experience in teaching the Indians in South Dakota. Miss Jane Neely now has charge of the school. All of these teachers lived in the neighborhood of the school and the younger generation, particularly, is showing evidence of the influence exerted over them.

While some of these Indians are prosperous and own small farms, the majority of them earn a living as day laborers for the white people of the vicinity.

There has been some suggestion of establishing in this section an industrial school as it is thought that such an institution would be the means of accomplishing great good towards training and developing the young people.
